TV Host & Head of Digital | AI Systems Builder | 3M+ Monthly Reach
| Journalist, Storyteller & Content Strategist | Open to Work

Summary

I've spent the last decade in the middle of Kenya's media — on camera, behind the lens, in the newsroom, and now building AI-powered content systems nobody else in this country is building yet. I started as a news reporter trained at Citizen TV, Kenya's biggest TV station. Today I co-host Urban News on StarTimes Channel 430, reaching over 2 million viewers every week alongside running digital strategy for PPP TV Kenya and leading major charity campaigns. But here's what most people miss on my CV: I can edit a video, write a news script, build an AI automation system, train a content team, host a 500-person university concert, and close a brand deal — all in the same week. I've done it. I've worked with brands like L'Oréal, Tecno, and Infinix. I've grown YouTube channels by 700K+ views. I've built AI publishing tools using Cloudflare, Supabase, and Meta APIs. I've authored a memoir. I've organised Campus Rave and Urban Tour shows across Kenyan universities and high schools. My GitHub (github.com/eugineous) has 7 live projects — including an autonomous news station, a multi-agent social media system with 150+ AI agents, and a YouTube automation pipeline that runs daily with zero human input. Right now I'm actively exploring new roles — remote or hybrid — in digital media, content strategy, AI content production, fullstack development, brand communications, or social media leadership. If your team needs someone who can both think and execute, we should talk. euginemicah@gmail.com
